Statement of Issues on Appeal

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in denying Ms. Nash a hardship discharge pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 523(a)(8).
2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court applied the correct standard for determining whether Ms. Nash was entitled to a hardship discharge of her student loans.
3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erroneously held Ms. Nash to a stricter standard because her claim for undue hardship was based upon a psychological disability.
4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court misapplied the facts in concluding that Ms. Nash was not entitled to a hardship discharge.
5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erroneously concluded that Ms. Nash did not establish that it is more likely than not that her mental condition will disable her indefinitely.
6. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erroneously concluded that Ms. Nash has not made good faith efforts to repay her educational loans.

7. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erroneously concluded that Ms. Nash could meet necessary living expenses while paying some amount towards her student loan obligations.
